

BROWLES RETURNS TO POLICE COURT

Crime Wave Shocks the Recorder, But He Has Not Forgotten Baseball, and Predicts Pennant.

Police court saw a very familiar figure at its head when it convened yesterday morning. At 12:30 o'clock, a figure that struck terror to evil-doers and crash-boaters, as well as the chaff that was sifted through police channels by Atlanta's famous "vice squad." It was Recorder Nash R. Browles, who, after having walked 20 miles, or more, viewing the Georgia reapers, arrived in town Wednesday night at the tail end of his annual vacation, which he spent in Highlands, N. C. On the return trip he walked from Highlands to the road, 20 miles distant. At his home on East Merritt avenue, late last night, he said in substance:

"Well, if I was a betting man, I'd bet you that Atlanta goes both games today. Being as I am no betting man, let us hope."

Betting on Atlanta Team.
The judge has kept up with the baseball situation throughout the entire month that he has been away. Although he was deep in the heart of Carolina mountains, he managed to get hold of a baseball page every now and then.

He has predicted Atlanta to get away with both contests today, in which event, he says in the slang of the game:

"Unfortunately Mobile will get the 'once over.'"

"One thing noticeable upon my return," said the judge, "is the report that the wave of crime that seems to have swept over the city, I have never seen conditions so bad at this particular season. It is inexplicable. Crime seems to have taken Atlanta a grip that is irresistible."

The number of tragedies is alarming, and the wrong-doers seem to have reaped a rich and plentiful harvest. It is the first time in police history that such a spasm of crime has shaken the city at this time of the year."

Against Split Trouser.
The judge also rapped the man who would dare venture forth on Atlanta's boulevards clad in such outrageous garb as split trousers.

"I can't say," he stated, "that it is against the law for a man to wear slanted trousers in Atlanta, but from my own personal viewpoint, I can say this much, whoever does will bear a liberal amount of watching."

Just so long as the split trouser does not project above the line, the judge stated, it is within the boundaries of the law. But "other than the knee,"

"Ten and cents is a nominal sum for public indecency, under which a higher, still would undoubtedly come. Styles," intimated the judge, "will soon reach such a stage that police and criminal courts will have to censor them before they are put on exhibition."

Negro Just Misses Death.
David Jones, a 10-year-old negro of 172 Rhodes street, narrowly escaped electrocution Thursday morning when he came in contact with a live wire in the branches of the tree in which he was playing. He hung suspended for fifteen minutes while a number of helpless bystanders stood and watched. He will live.

WHIPPING BOSS SUEED FOR BEATING A NEGRO

Henry Shivers Alleges That He Was Unmercifully Treated at Bellwood Camp.

Henry Shivers, colored, an ex-convict of Bellwood camp, on Thursday filed suit for damages against Jones, whipping boss at the camp, for injuries received when he alleges that Jones cruelly thrashed him with a leather strap for smoking a cigarette.

The petition states that Shivers was convicted and sent to the chain-gang for a nine-month sentence December 1, 1912.

After he had eaten supper on or about March 24, 1913, so Shivers states, he was ordered a cigarette, as he had seen other convicts do, and was not aware that he was breaking a rule of the camp.

He was reported to Whipping Boss Jones, however, who called him into the messroom an hour later and unmercifully in the presence of about 250 other convicts.

The petition claims that Jones was intoxicated with whisky, and in a violent mood at the time of his alleged cruel treatment of Shivers.

The petition states that Shivers was made to strip off his clothing and get down on his elbows and knees, in which position he was beaten for about five minutes. Shivers then sat down on a bench and begged Jones for mercy, declaring that he had seen other convicts smoking, and that he did not know that he was breaking a rule, and promised not to smoke any more.

From this promise, so Shivers declares, Jones exclaimed:

"No, damn well you will not smoke any more when I get through with you!"

Shivers began beating Shivers again, and whipped him for fifteen or twenty minutes, hitting him "fifty or seventy-five" times.

Shivers claims that Jones did not stop the whipping strap which he exposed to view at the camp, but beat him with a heavy "leather club," which he kept hidden under the steps at the entrance to the camp. This strap or club, he alleged to have been about 2 1/2 to 4 feet in length, 3 inches wide, with a handle composed of five or six pieces of leather, bradded together.

With this device Shivers says he was beaten so hard that he was knocked to the floor. He declares that the "leather club" was made of his limbs were torn, bruised, his head was lacerated by the lash, and that scars were cut on his back.

Shivers claims that prior to his beating his earning capacity was from $10 to $12 per week, and that his earning capacity has been reduced by one-fourth as a result of the beating.

He claims that Jones is worth about $10,000, and asks $25,000 in damages, plus his legal fees. He is 20 years old, and lives on Summit avenue.

Shivers is represented by the law firm of Maddox & Sims.

PEACHTREE CREEK TO BE CLEARED BY CITY

Mayor Woodward Announces He Is Tired of Waiting on the County to Act.

The work of clearing out the debris and obstructions in Peachtree creek to protect the disposal plant from an overflow will be begun by the city Monday morning.

Mayor Woodward made this announcement Thursday morning following a conference in his office with Chief of Construction Clayton, chairman of the Board of Public Works, Chairman of the Finance Committee, Chairman of the Public Works Committee, Chairman of the Sewer Committee, and Chairman of the Board of Public Works.

This action following the statement by the city commissioners on Wednesday that they were not in position to do the work of clearing out the creek.

Mayor Woodward immediately issued a call to the chairman and department heads above named with a view to getting the work attended to without further delay.

At the meeting Mayor Woodward stated that already there had been too much talk and not enough action in regard to the protection of the disposal plant from an overflow and that both the county and city had depended too much upon the other to attend to it.

The result was an agreement that the necessary labor would be hired at once and all arrangements made for the beginning of the work early next Monday morning.

The wedding had been set for October 12.

Mr. Felton returned from Lake Tuckaway several days ago, and at that time advised his parents and the parents of Miss Johnston that he could not marry her.

Miss Johnston has been sending the summer at Tuckaway, and it was on the occasion of Mr. Felton's second visit to her that she told him she did not love him and was not going to marry him.

Yesterday Mr. Felton called for E. R. Rogers, where he will reside the next six months. He had originally planned to make this his home, but had already made his reservations. When his wedding plans were interrupted, he decided to go away and make the European trip by himself.

The Felton and Johnston families have known each other for years, residing within a half block of each other, on Georgia avenue, in the city. The families are well acquainted in the wealthiest in the city. Both Miss Johnston and Mr. Felton are the only children of their parents.

CRISPNESS OF AUTUMN FELT IN ATLANTA AIR

Weather Man Says "Showers Today," But Atlanta Will Forget Him if He Misses.

The first crisp breath of autumn weather arrived on Thursday, and so the forecast for Friday is cool weather and showers.

After the sweltering days of August, Atlanta received the cooler weather of Thursday. The night was heavy and rainy. For the first time in September took on an appetizing significance.

Also was one word to call to mind the touching words of "poet, which was somewhat true."

"The melancholy days are here—A little too warm for whisky and a little too cold for beer."

The first smell of autumn was good, and Atlanta is ready for more. But with all these beautiful sentiments, there is one point upon which Atlanta inclines to be a little particular about the weather deal for the promised showers.

"Go just a little slow on that proposition today, please," says Mr. Weatherman, because we have some very important work cut out for us at "snappy park today," is the plea of all Atlanta.

on, Ga, September 4, (Specials) conferences here today between S. W. Anderson, counsel for

E. Watson in the case now being argued against him in the United States district court at Augusta, with Attorney General Clegg and Attorney General Akerman as counsel for the government. Watson was finally decided to take up the case at Augusta on the third Monday in August. The presiding judge has not yet been determined.

McLendon stated today that such a case would be made to have the case taken out of court on the ground that the government has no jurisdiction. The contention is that such a case is in violation of the constitution of the United States, in that it curtails speech. This, it is said, will be the first time that such a question has been raised in a case of this kind.
